

Worse or Better?

Which would be worse?

Being misunderstood or receiving someone else's punishment?

Which would be worse?

Being hospitalized near death for three months or having your deepest secret revealed to your family and friends.

Which would be better?

Being a skilled author or gifted speaker.

Which would be worse?

Living in a house with no windows or in a house made entirely of windows - w/o window coverings.

Which would be better?

Having a terminal illness and the support of many friends or having perfect health but no friends.

Which would be worse?

Being punished for killing someone in self-defense or living with the guilt of accidentally causing someone's death.

Which would be better?

Possessing the discipline of an ant or commanding the respect of a lion.

Which would be better?

Having good parents or a godly spouse. Proverbs 19:14

Which would be worse?

Endlessly wandering from nation to nation in hunger or living in one place as a slave but never going hungry.

Which would be better?

Learning by hearing or learning by seeing?

Which would be worse?

Being chased by a person with a sword or being chased by a pack of dogs.

Which would be worse?

Being annoyed by a mosquito or irritated by someone who talks too much.

Which would be better?

Having parents who are like best friends to you or parents who are more like caring teachers.

Worse or Better?

Which would be worse?

Throwing up lasagna or chicken noodle soup?

Which would be better?

Someone telling you how to do something or someone showing you how to do something?

Which would be worse?

Knowing the people you love actually hate you or knowing the people you love simply don't care about you?

Which would be better?

Doing math homework or history homework?

Which would be better?

Having a friend who talks a lot and wears his heart on his sleeve or a friend who's quiet and keeps things bottled up?

Which would be worse?

Finding out you have a terrible life-threatening disease or finding out one of your siblings does?

Which would be worse?

Hearing two people you thought were your best friends talk badly about you behind your back or accidentally running your shopping cart into an elderly woman and knocking her over at a grocery store?

Which would be worse?

Getting on an elevator with someone you recently argued with or sitting next to that person in church?

Which would be better?

Sitting in front of a nice, warm fireplace or taking a long drive along the ocean?

Which would be worse?

Barfing on yourself while riding a roller coaster or mowing the neighbor's 1 acre yard all summer long for free?

Which would be better?

Living life without any physical pain or without emotional pain?

Which would be better?

A friend who never says anything bad about others or a friend who hates evil people?